HISTORY OF CONFEDERATE MONUMENT IN TRAVIS PARK

Located in downtown San Antonio, Bexar Co., Texas

Written by Mrs. Fred Olden of San Antonio, Texas

(Information was taken from the records of BARNARD E. BEE CHAPTER NO. 86, United Daughters of the Confederacy.)

During the summer of 1899, Mrs. William H. Young organized a Chapter of the UNITED DAUGHTERS OF THE CONFEDERACY. Charter was granted on October 6, 1899, and was named BARNARD E. BEE NO. 86 in honor of Brigadier General BARNARD ELLIOTT BEE, who was killed in the Battle of Manassas July 21, 1861. His father, BARNARD E. BEE, SR., moved to Texas in 1835, after the Texas Revolution, and became Secretary of State, Republic of Texas. The BEE Family was prominent in San Antonio. Bee County and city of Beeville were named in honor of the family.

The objects of the United Daughters of the Confederacy were: Memorial, Historical, Benevolent, Educational and Patriotic.

Charter members under the leadership of their first elected President, MRS. A. W. HOUSTON, began plans to erect San Antonio's first historical monument.

The Ladies were:

MRS. A. J. ALLENSWORTH
MISS FANNIE APPLEWHITE
MISS MAE BAUGH
MRS. T. P. BAUGH
MISS EMILY BEAUREGARD
MRS. HAMPTON P. BEE
MISS KATIE CAMPBELL
MISS ALICE LEE KING

The Council granted permission and gave a perpetual place in Travis Park to erect the Confederate Monument.

The design was drawn by a distinguished New Orleans artist, MISS VIRGINIA MONTGOMERY, whose mother was a member of the U.D.C. The stonework was done by FRANK TRICH, material being gray granite from the Llano quarries. Figure of the soldier with gun at rest and arm raised to Heaven is symbolic of faith in the Lost Cause, the ivy wreath typifying the Glory of heroic service.

Three Thousand dollars that financed the Monument was acquired by giving teas, dinners, musical and dramatic performances. The Corner Stone was laid on June 1, 1899, and unveiled the following April. JUDGE JOHN H. REAGAN, who had been Postmaster General in the Confederate Cabinet, was guest speaker. Eloquent addresses were also made by the HON. MARSHALL HICKS, Mayor of San Antonio, and by JUDGE COLUMBUS UPSON, a veteran of the Confederate Army.

Two cannon flank the site of this monument. They were used in the Battle at Glorieta Pass, New Mexico, during the War Between the States (1861-1865). At the end of the war, they were kept buried; after it was safe they were unearthed by MAJOR TREVANION T. TEEL, Commander of TEEL'S Battery. MAJ. TEEL was grandfather of MRS. J. H. HENNING of San Antonio. They were brought to Texas and donated to be placed in Travis Park by MAJ. TEEL.

From the Telegraph and Texas Register, Aug. 18, 1838:

ENTRAY NOTICE. Taken up by DAVID RAYMON and appraised before W. L. BARKER, J.P., a black roan horse six years old, 14 hands high, star in the forehead, left hind foot white, valued at $175.00. Fort. Bexar County, August 6.

2 COURTROOM DEPUTY: SA:17-CV-837, Richard Brewer
3 versus Ron Nirenberg, et al.

4 THE COURT: All right, good afternoon. Can I have 5 appearances please?

6 MR. CHAPMAN: Good afternoon, Your Honor. I'm 7 James Chapman appearing on behalf of Kirk Lyons who I 8 believe the court has permitted to also appear by 9 telephone.

10 THE COURT: Yes.

11 MR. LYONS: Mr. Lyons is present by telephone, if 12 y'all can hear me.

13 THE COURT: We can hear you, Mr. Lyons. Can you 14 hear me?

15 MR. LYONS: Thank you. Yes, sir.

16 MS. KLEIN: Debbie Klein and Shawn Fitzpatrick.
17 Just for the record, we have not actually been served 18 at this point, but we did want to be heard on the 19 temporary restraining order.

20 THE COURT: Okay. All right, Mr. Lyons, are you 21 going to be making the argument?

22 MR. LYONS: I can begin if I can be heard. This 23 was filed, Your Honor, may it please this honorable 24 court, we filed this action just before the court 25 closed last night because we had information that the

1 City of San Antonio was going to vote and take down the 2 117-year-old confederate monument at Travis Park. We 3 believe that we have met the elements for a temporary 4 restraining order. I did enjoy reading the City's 5 brief response. It's a great motion to dismiss motion, 6 it's a 12(b)6, but there wasn't very much temporary 7 restraining order there, save that likelihood of 8 success on the merits they put in doubt. The case is 9 in Federal Court on a Federal question. We are 10 obviously going to have to amend our complaint, we had 11 to do this very hurriedly and rushed and we have, you 12 know, we have time to do that since they have not 13 answered to properly amend it and clean it up, but 14 what's on issue here is the irreparable harm that will 15 be done if the City of San Antonio is allowed to take 16 down this 117-year-old monument probably tonight.
17 While we are trying to wrestle these issues in Federal 18 Court. We have a case very similar to this in Austin 19 in the Western District of Texas, Austin Court, where 20 we have sued the University of Texas. One of the 21 plaintiffs is the same in that case, Texas Division
22 Sons of Confederate Veterans. The case was filed less 23 than a week -- a little over a week ago and just 24 yesterday we issued a joint advisory with the 25 University of Texas and the plaintiffs with the court

1 there in Austin which would allow essentially the 2 maintenance of a status quo while these issues -- 3 especially if the 12(b)6 level are being pled and 4 argued. That agreement was just signed yesterday and I 5 would be happy to make a copy of that available to the 6 court and opposing counsel, of course.

7 THE COURT: All right. Just a minute,
8 Mr. Lyons --

9 MR. LYONS: We have a similar situation here in 10 that where we're facing irreparable injury, there's 11 always a possibility that the monument could be 12 damaged. Once it's down makes it that much harder to 13 put back up and there's no -- we don't see that there
14 is a burden on the City whether they take it down 15 tonight or at the end of the 12(b)6 period if they 16 should prevail. We certainly think it's in the public 17 interest. Monuments are coming down all over the 18 nation. We do have a Federal question, we think that 19 we can hold on to that Federal question that it's 20 appropriate, the First Amendment problems that we see 21 with the City of San Antonio mandating what this 22 statute stands for and why it should come down. We 23 have cited the Barnes case of Supreme Court in Texas v.
24 Johnson regarding political speech of political bodies 25 in this context and we certainly think that we can

1 distinguish this case from the recent Walker versus 2 Texas SCV case. Again that's more appropriate for the 3 12(b)6 level of this case and not the temporary 4 restraining order.

5 The likelihood of success on the merits, I
6 think that we have a fair shot at it, Your Honor.
7 There is of course the City has alleged a standing 8 problem which again is more proper to the 12(b)6 part 9 of this case. The Supreme Court of Texas is probably 10 fixing to rule on that very issue within the next 11 couple of weeks on the standing issue, but we certainly 12 again we do need to beef up the standing that we have 13 alleged in the complaint and we have the right to do
14 that. That analysis is not appropriate at the TRO 15 level and what we allege is irreparable injury if that 16 monument comes down tonight before we had a chance for 17 our arguments to be properly read and heard. It's 18 certainly in the public interest. We believe that 19 there is a likelihood that we can prevail on the merits
20 and certainly we do not think this puts an undue burden
21 on the City to wait until the judicial process can wind 22 its way. It won't be that long. If they're confident 23 that they can win at the 12(b)6 level and dismiss this 24 claim, you know, we're only going to be talking a 25 matter of weeks or just a couple of months before the

1 end of that process and so, Your Honor, we on behalf of 2 the plaintiffs and other similar situated, this 3 monument needs to stay here for the time being.

4 THE COURT: All right. Thank you very much,
5 Mr. Lyons.

6 MS. KLEIN: May I respond, Your Honor?

7 THE COURT: Yes. That's why you're here.

8 MS. KLEIN: First and foremost, Your Honor, we 9 would point out that while the plaintiffs have filed an 10 application for injunctive relief, they don't have any 11 request within their pleadings for final relief in this 12 case which in itself makes their entire suit infirm.
13 Beyond that, Mr. Lyons has indicated that our response 14 is more of a 12(b)6 motion, but in fact, as a basic 15 tenet of entering a temporary restraining order which 16 is an extraordinary relief, there are four elements 17 that it is plaintiff's burden of proof, it's not our 18 burden to disprove, although I think we've done that.
19 And the first of those is the likelihood of success on 20 the merits. And if, in fact, what we've established is 21 a good 12(b)6 motion, that is establishing that there's 22 not a likelihood of success on the merits for the 23 plaintiff. And I think it's important to note that as 24 those steps, those elements of a TRO are set fourth and 25 I'll refer the court specifically to Clark versus

1 Prichard out of the Fifth Circuit which is 812 F2d 991,
2 it's not just a likelihood, it's a substantial 3 likelihood of success on the merits. And I would like 4 if it's okay with the court to go through some of the 5 elements that I've established through our response 6 already and may be a bit repetitive of what's been 7 filed, but I'd like to elaborate on some of them, if I 8 may.

9 THE COURT: All right.

10 MS. KLEIN: So first of all, there is a standing 11 question which Mr. Lyons has made light of in this 12 case. However, standing is jurisdictional. If they 13 don't have standing, the court doesn't have 14 jurisdiction over the case and we do not believe there
15 is standing in this case. The plaintiffs have failed 16 to identify a single injury that is personal to them
17 which is an essential element of standing. It's not 18 sufficient to just say I'm injured to the same extent 19 as the public at large. They have to show a personal 20 injury to themselves. Mr. Lyons indicated that he 21 expected some sort of ruling from the Supreme Court on 22 this issue in the future. Well, the Texas Supreme 23 Court has spoken to this already. And they've said 24 exactly that, that just merely being a taxpayer and 25 suffering the same supposed harm as the general public

1 is not sufficient.

2 THE COURT: I'm aware of that. The fact of the 3 matter is that this court doesn't judge Federal 4 constitutional claims predicated on the decisions of 5 State Supreme Courts. I look to Federal law, not State
6 law. State law may be instructive, but it is not 7 controlling.

8 MS. KLEIN: I understand, Your Honor, and so I'd 9 also reference the court to Flast versus Cohen, 392
10 U.S. 83, which is establishes that there is not a 11 qualification for taxpayer standing except in very 12 limited circumstances which relate to establishment
13 clause lawsuit which this is not. The reason I cited 14 to the State law as well is because in the cases in the 15 Federal system that I was able to find this morning, 16 they all go to the expenditure of Federal funds and so 17 that's why just for the court's edification I also 18 wanted to reference the State law as well and what the 19 State's position has been on taxpayers.

20 We also have taken the position that the 21 parties that have been sued in this case are not the 22 proper parties to the suit. The plaintiffs have filed
23 suit against each of the council members, not the City 24 of San Antonio. The City Council is voting on the 25 agenda item today and once that item is passed, their

1 roles and responsibilities with respect to it are 2 essentially completed and it goes to the City to follow
3 through on the actions that they have set forth.

4 THE COURT: Well, they sued the Mayor.

5 MS. KLEIN: They did sue the Mayor, Your Honor.
6 But as a matter of record, we set forth that they did 7 not file the suit against the proper parties. More 8 importantly, though, let's get to the actual causes of 9 action which they pled which are three. The first one 10 is this claim that the City doesn't actually own the 11 property at issue. Their own pleadings dispel this 12 argument that they have made. They concede in their 13 pleadings that in the 18 -- I believe it's the 1880s,
14 Mary Maverick, who was the owner of the property, 15 previously conveyed and recorded a conveyance of the 16 property to the City. The City has held that property 17 uncontested except for one contest that we could find 18 since that time and that contest occurred in the 1950s
19 when the City was going to build an underground parking 20 garage in additional property that's next to the park.
21 And the court -- again it is in State Court, but the 22 court did judicially recognize the City's ownership of 23 that property. And --

24 THE COURT: Well, that, the court takes cognizance
25 of because that's a question of State law, who owns a

1 particular parcel of property or a building or a
2 monument would be determined generally, unless it's a 3 Federal parcel, by State law. That's not what we're 4 talking about. What I was talking about when I said we 5 don't judge Federal constitutional claims by rulings of 6 State Court on things like free speech and those -- 7 because we have Federal law we look to. In fact, the 8 Supreme Court of Texas, when judging a Federal 9 constitutional claim, is compelled to look to Federal 10 law as well.

11 MS. KLEIN: And we believe the Federal law
12 supports our position in this case. Going also along 13 the question of the ownership of the property, the 14 plaintiffs have not pled any allegation that they have 15 a property interest in that property. They have no 16 standing to claim we don't own the property because 17 there's been no allegation that any plaintiff is 18 actually entitled to ownership of the property. This 19 should have -- if it could be brought as a suit which 20 we don't believe it should, it's essentially a trespass
21 to try title suit and we believe that the allegations
22 as pled support the City owns the property.

23 They've also made an allegation of adverse 24 possession that -- and I may be getting their argument 25 wrong, but as I read their case, what they're

1 contending is that because the statue was placed on the 2 property in the 1890s and we did not record a deed 3 within 25 years, that that property has now become the 4 property of some other entity, not the plaintiffs, 5 through adverse possession. And again I do rely on 6 State law for this proposition, but under the Texas
7 Civil Practice and Remedies Code, Section 16.061a, 8 Limitations do not apply against the interest of 9 government entity in the State of Texas. So there is 10 no adverse possession that can be asserted against the 11 City of San Antonio.

12 Additionally under 16.030, it specifically 13 says that you cannot take adverse possession of 14 property -- a person may not -- of property that is 15 held for public use, such as a park. So based on that, 16 their adverse possession arguments are without merit 17 and they are not likely to be successful on that.
18 They've also alleged this concept of estoppel -- I'm 19 going to butcher this, but I believe it's pronounced in 20 pais. And the theory is that because the statue was 21 placed there and we haven't done anything about it, 22 that essentially it's an easement and we can't do 23 anything about it. Again I rely on State law for this 24 concept of estoppel. The states anyway have 25 established that there is no estoppel against a

1 government for enjoying its government functions and in 2 this particular case the operation of a park is deemed 3 to be a government function and we don't believe that 4 estoppel is appropriate. We don't believe there's been 5 facts alleged. And again this comes back to the 6 standing issue, I haven't seen any allegation that any 7 of the plaintiffs have a property interest in the 8 property that the statue is on and so based on that, we 9 don't believe they can be successful on that at the end 10 of the day.

11 The third claim is this claim that there is 12 an abridgment of their freedom of speech and of the due 13 process. On the freedom of speech, the U.S. Supreme 14 Court has clearly spoken through the decision of 15 Pleasant Grove, City of Pleasant Grove versus Sumnum, 16 not sure how to pronounce that. And in that, they 17 recognize the concept of government speech and 18 specifically discuss the fact that monuments and parks 19 are aspects of government speech. And so, therefore, 20 the scrutiny of a First Amendment claim is not truly 21 applicable to these challenges and that governments 22 control and have final authority over what speech is 23 displayed in their parks, assuming use of permanent 24 monuments. Whether those monuments are placed there by 25 the City or whether they give permission to someone

1 else to place it, it turns into the government's speech
2 because it is associated with the government's property
3 which is the park. The Supreme Court in that case
4 clearly said that the government gets to make a 5 decision what speech they choose to express. And the 6 mere fact that a hundred years or more ago the then 7 reigning or the then installed Council -- poor choice 8 of words, Your Honor -- the installed City Council at 9 the time felt that was a government speech they were 10 comfortable with. The current City Council, duly 11 elected by the public, does not agree with them.

12 THE COURT: Have they actually voted yet?

13 MS. KLEIN: The vote was going on this afternoon.
14 It passed.

15 THE COURT: So there is an actual vote to remove 16 the statue.

17 MS. KLEIN: There is an ordinance in place.

18 THE COURT: So we do have a case or controversy
19 because if there had been no vote, if they hadn't 20 voted, if there hadn't been anything to challenge, we 21 wouldn't have a case or controversy and as you know in 22 Federal Court, the very first thing that I need to have 23 before I have jurisdiction, because this is a court of 24 limited jurisdiction, is a case or controversy, so now 25 we have a case or controversy.

1 MS. KLEIN: Thank you, Your Honor. Plaintiffs
2 have not alleged any specific free speech violation
3 that would go to them as the plaintiffs. I believe 4 there's a pleading to the effect that the monument's 5 free speech is being abridged, but the monument doesn't 6 hold free speech. To the extent that they're 7 contending the monument was put up by the Daughters of 8 Confederacy, they're not a party to this lawsuit. The 9 plaintiffs -- again it wouldn't matter anyway because 10 the monument at this point is considered to be 11 government free speech or should be considered to be 12 government free speech. There is nothing that the 13 plaintiffs have alleged nor is there any evidence I
14 believe that they will be prohibited from exercising 15 their free speech rights as they're entitled to under 16 the law and in a public forum, but this particular 17 statue is not their expression of free speech, so 18 therefore, there's no likelihood they would succeed on 19 the merits of a free speech claim.

20 Their final claim is abridgment of a due 21 process. Again the first question in looking at a due 22 process claim is what is the property or liberty 23 interest which they are claiming they've been deprived 24 of. There's not one. They have not established any 25 property interest in the monument itself or in the park

1 property that they own as the plaintiffs. They have 2 tried to assert this freedom of speech, but as I've 3 just addressed the court, that is not actually anything 4 that's being abridged. So based on that and based also 5 on the fact that we have gone through the process, 6 there has been an open meeting, there has been an 7 opportunity for people to speak and the legislative 8 body has taken the vote that it has, there has been 9 appropriate due process for proceeding with the 10 decision to remove the statue as government speech.

11 The second element of a preliminary
12 injunction is the concept of irreparable harm and we do 13 not believe that there's been a sufficient pleading of 14 irreparable harm in this case. The City represents 15 that the statue is not being destroyed. It is being 16 removed, it will be stored. If at the end of the day 17 the court should rule in favor of the plaintiffs on 18 this case, it can be replaced if the court so orders.
19 If there was damage to it, the City could be ordered to 20 repair any damage or to properly place an equal statue 21 back on the pedestal or back on the place where it's 22 currently located. So we do not believe that there is 23 irreparable harm in this case to justify the issuance 24 of a temporary restraining order.

25 The third element is a question of where is

1 the greater injury in granting it or denying it. We 2 don't believe the plaintiffs have established any 3 injury on their part as we said at the very beginning 4 because they failed to establish any sort of property
5 or liberty interest which is being violated. We do
6 feel that if the TRO is granted, that there is a harm 7 to the City, it's to the City at large through both the 8 electoral process and the decisions made by the 9 community of the City of San Antonio to elect people to 10 the City Council to act on their behalf as well as to 11 the legislative process to make determinances to what's 12 in the best interest of the City.

13 And finally, the last one is whether or not 14 granting the TRO will disserve the public and the City
15 does feel strongly that granting this TRO will disserve
16 the public. Mr. Lyons has stated as I think everyone 17 in this courtroom is well aware throughout the country 18 the issue of removal of these statues has been at the 19 forefront, it's all over the newspapers and we believe 20 that one day longer with the statue in place is one day 21 more of disservice to the public at large. And so 22 based on that, we would ask that the court deny the 23 temporary restraining order. We don't believe they've 24 met any of their burdens and in fact if we've been able 25 to establish that even one of their elements is not

76

1 established, the TRO cannot go forward. I also just 2 for the record would like to reiterate as in our 3 response, we've objected to the affidavit of Mr. Lyons.
4 The only I guess evidence attached to his application 5 is his own affidavit which states that he's read
6 newspaper articles and talked to people. He has no 7 indication that any of the information contained within 8 the petition is true and correct based on anyone's 9 personal knowledge. And so based on that, we don't 10 believe the temporary restraining order motion is 11 properly supported. Does the court have any questions?

12 THE COURT: I do not.

13 MS. KLEIN: Thank you, Your Honor.

14 THE COURT: Mr. Lyons, I'll give you a moment for 15 short rebuttal argument if you'd like.

16 MR. LYONS: Yes, Your Honor, briefly. One, as is 17 clear in our complaint, all of the defendants are 18 served in their official capacity which is essentially 19 makes it a suit against the City of San Antonio. No 20 one is sued in their individual capacity. I think that 21 was properly done.

22 Secondly, with all the monuments coming down
23 around the country, we have seen several instances 24 where government taking down monuments have botched it.
25 They have broken the monument, destroyed them and it's

1 been badly done. And any time that you take down a 2 117-year-old monument, you're going to have problems if 3 it's not done by experts. The taxpayers of San Antonio 4 are -- two of our plaintiffs are taxpayer citizens of 5 San Antonio have an interest in their money not being 6 wasted, that this not be done twice if we should 7 prevail. Our position is very reasonable, Judge, we're 8 just asking for the status quo. While we push this 9 through the court, all of San Antonio's wonderful 10 12(b)6 arguments can then be properly pled and 11 researched and we can respond and we can take our time 12 and set up a preliminary injunction hearing where both 13 sides can more fully brief their positions, but the 14 12(b)6 standard does not apply here, Your Honor, and 15 anything that we have the right to fix anything that 16 San Antonio has very kindly pointed out for us if we 17 think it needs fixing, but right now we are facing 18 irreparable injury, it is in the public interest that 19 this monument be protected for now until these issues
20 are all brought out. There is the pending jurisdiction 21 of the court to hear the State claims attached to the 22 Federal claims as long as they're related, so it's just 23 like what we did in Austin, Judge, give us the time to 24 pull the West Law out and get to work on this and 25 properly bring this through pleadings in the court

1 whether it be preliminary injunction hearing which we 2 can set at all parties' and the court's convenience or 3 a 12(b)6 motion which this is not the proper place to 4 argue, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: My understanding is at the University 6 of Texas a number of statues were, in fact, removed.

7 MR. LYONS: Yes, Your Honor, that's true. We did 8 not respond in time, but we -- our lawsuit was 9 regarding the pedestals or plinths that remained.

10 THE COURT: The statues are gone.

11 MR. LYONS: Statues are gone. They're in storage 12 at the -- we didn't get there in time for that 13 because --

14 THE COURT: I think what we need --

15 MR. LYONS: The pedestals which they were going to 16 remove are being left by agreement. That's what the 17 agreement covered is the plinths or pedestals that were 18 left that our information was were going to be removed.
19 That's what the status quo is, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: All right. Okay. I just want to make 21 it clear that there was no Federal judge in Austin that 22 issued a temporary restraining order or preliminary 23 injunction. That didn't happen.

24 MR. LYONS: No, that is correct, Your Honor. No, 25 it was a joint advisory to the court by agreement.

1 THE COURT: And it didn't actually have anything
2 to do with the statute themselves, it just had to do 3 with the bases of them.

4 MR. LYONS: The pedestals, yes, Your Honor, that's 5 correct.

6 MR. CHAPMAN: Your Honor, would the court allow me 7 to make --

8 THE COURT: No, sir. We have counsel here. He's 9 already argued on behalf of the parties. We can't -- 10 this is not a tag team match here.

11 MR. CHAPMAN: Thank you, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: So you have competent counsel. I've 13 given him plenty of opportunity to argue.

14 First of all, I think the court needs to make 15 it very clear that my scope of consideration here has 16 to do with some very complicated issues of Federal law 17 having to do with constitution and having to do with 18 jurisdiction. There is nothing in my charge here, 19 nothing, that gives me either the right or gives me the 20 authority to make an independent determination as to 21 whether or not it is a good thing or a bad thing to 22 have the statue of William Travis in the park. That is 23 not my job, it is not my authority, I have no right to 24 do that and I have no intention of doing that. That is 25 a function of a governmental body elected by the people

1 of the City of San Antonio, not a United States
2 District Judge appointed by President Reagan in 1988.
3 My job is to determine whether there is a free speech 4 violation here, whether the plaintiffs have standing to 5 assert their claim and that is it. So I want to make 6 it very clear here because unfortunately there is 7 always these misunderstandings. When Federal judges 8 who have limited jurisdiction make these decisions, 9 they're often misunderstood as being a decision on the 10 merits of a particular action taken by someone rather 11 than whether or not there is a Federal cause of action 12 that exists under the law and that is what my charge is 13 here. And I think that's very very important to 14 understand. Now, let me make it clear that I do not, 15 as I sit here today, I do not understand that it's the 16 City's present intention to destroy the statue. Am I
17 correct?

18 MS. KLEIN: That is correct, Your Honor, and we've 19 actually hired a company that's an expert in removal of 20 these sorts of statues.

21 THE COURT: So it's my understanding that what the 22 City intends to do is at some point remove the statue 23 and then -- intact, and then place it somewhere in 24 storage until the City finds another appropriate place
25 to house it. Am I correct?

1 MS. KLEIN: That is correct, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Am I understanding that correctly?

3 MS. KLEIN: That is correct, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: Now, of course, if the plaintiffs were 5 to prevail in their lawsuit, then the statue, if it was 6 removed, would have to be replaced. So the point is 7 that the statue has to remain intact.

8 MS. KLEIN: Yes, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: Right?

10 MS. KLEIN: Yes.

11 THE COURT: So we understand that. And that isn't 12 always the case. I mean I've seen other cases where 13 governmental bodies come in with a wrecking ball -- not 14 necessarily statue cases, but with historic properties 15 and so forth and the desire is to get rid of it and the 16 cheapest and easiest way to do that is to demolish it 17 and just have the remnants carted away and then someone 18 comes along and says, wait a minute, this is a historic 19 property, you can't do that, and then we have a Federal 20 lawsuit.

21 MS. KLEIN: That's correct. That is not the 22 intent here, Your Honor. The intent is to remove it in 23 full -- I don't know what the proper term is, but 24 intact.

25 THE COURT: Intact is the proper term.

1 MS. KLEIN: Intact, keep it in storage.

2 THE COURT: All right. Well, the parties have 3 raised a number of issues here. I'm not going to make 4 a ruling from the bench. I think that's not 5 appropriate, but I do understand the importance of 6 getting a ruling out quickly. It is my general
7 practice in a case such as this, and I've been doing
8 this for a long time, to issue a written ruling. And I 9 do that for two reasons. First of all, I do it so that 10 the parties have something in hand that explains 11 precisely what the court did and more importantly the 12 parties are entitled to know why I did it and the legal 13 basis for my ruling rather than the court just simply 14 saying I'm going to do this or that. That's important.
15 Secondly, it also provides the parties a document by 16 which if they choose to do so, they can seek an 17 emergency appeal to the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals 18 which is much more difficult to do if all you have is 19 an oral ruling, right? And I believe in the appellate 20 process, I always have. I'm not saying that people are 21 going to appeal what I do. I do pretty good on appeal, 22 I understand, but the fact of the matter is I sit by 23 designation I have sat for over 27 years on the Ninth
24 Circuit Court of Appeals, I do it two or three times a 25 year, so I believe in the appellate process. So if you

1 want to appeal what I do, I have every intent of 2 providing the parties with the document by which they 3 can do that, okay. I will try to get an order out
4 by -- it's 2:30. I will try to get an order out today 5 by 4:00. My understanding is that nothing is going to 6 take place before 5:00, is that what we were told?

7 MS. KLEIN: That's correct, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: All right. Now, I would urge all 9 concerned to exercise a degree of contemplative 10 restraint regardless of what this court does, okay.
11 This is not the end of this case regardless of whether 12 I grant or deny the motion. People have very strong 13 feelings about these issues and I understand and 14 appreciate that, I do. But a resort to individual 15 action in a way that would cause disruption or worse is 16 not the right way to vindicate one's rights in a 17 situation like this. It just isn't productive. It 18 doesn't work, it backfires virtually every time it's 19 done and tends to validate the arguments made by the 20 opposing side, so I would certainly urge all to be 21 calm, let the process run its course. Regardless of 22 what I do today, there will be a further motion in this 23 case down the road. This is not a motion to dismiss 24 the case. This is simply a motion to seek a 25 restraining order on the City's removal of the statue

1 to another place where the statue would be preserved.
2 It is not a request by the City to destroy the statue.
3 That's important to understand. So I will take the 4 matter under advisement and as I said I'm going to try 5 to get an order out in writing between four and 4:30 6 this afternoon. Okay. Thank you very much for your 7 arguments. Thank you, Mr. Lyons.

8 MR. LYONS: Thank you, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: Court stands in recess.

10 COURT SECURITY OFFICER: All rise.

AFFIDAVIT

My name is John McCammon; I am over the age of eighteen and am capable of providing this statement and affidavit.

I am providing this statement and affidavit of my own personal knowledge, freely and willingly, as part of a lawsuit filed by the Texas Division, Sons of Confederate Veterans.

I serve as Lieutenant Commander of the Texas Division of the Sons of Confederate Veterans. During my 15 years with the Sons of Confederate Veterans, it has been a privilege to honor the legacy of Confederate Veterans. We provide educational programs and awards to JROTC students. We enhance civic functions throughout the United States through historical reenactments, participation in parades and festivals, maintain veteran's graves, and also by providing relief to those affected by natural disasters.

The SCV performs outreach to the community through programs about the Civil War to local schools and provide men and women dressed in period uniforms for various civic functions in San Antonio. I have been a member for 15 years. When not in the SCV, I am a retired account executive and live in Boerne, TX.

In addition, I am President of the Confederate Cemetery Association of San Antonio. Our mission is to protect the graves of the Confederate Veterans and their families in our privately owned cemetery in San Antonio, TX.

I was disappointed to see the Confederate Monument in Travis Park come down and as I drove by Travis Park and saw where the City workers jack hammered the base of the monument and became alarmed. The base of the monument was designed and constructed of carved granite blocks. They were laid by the well-known sculpture, Frank Teich in 1899. Those granite blocks are valuable and cannot be replaced without being individually carved.

I was very concerned about the jack hammering. The base contained a time Capsule that contained the names of the ladies who raised the funds for the monument in the late 1890's. They held bake sales, quilting bees, and teas to raise a few dollars at a time. By using those jack hammers, I fear they may have destroyed that time capsule as described in the newspaper and the roster of the members who raised those funds – along with the contents in that time capsule. The base of the monument was a critical part of the statue. I did not see the need to employ jack hammers. I was also surprised that the City of San Antonio started removing that monument without informing the Confederate Cemetery Association after saying in the paper that they would consider a panel to determine the disposition of the monument. I attended the last public opportunity to speak about the preservation of the monument at city hall. The mayor shook my hand and said that as a member of the SCV and President of the Confederate Cemetery Association that my input would be considered in the removal of the statue. The Confederate Cemetery is available as I told the mayor that night. I was never contacted again and the monument was taken down and covered with dirt and shrubs placed over where the statue stood.

I attended the hearing in the Federal Court where Senior Federal Judge, the honorable David Ezra, asked specifically of the city attorney if the statue was to be removed intact. This was confirmed by the city attorney that the statue would be removed intact.

"I declare under penalty of perjury that the above statement is true and correct. I have been given an opportunity to review this statement and to make any necessary changes."

Re: Brewer v. Nirenberg/ Cause No. 17-CV-00837-DAE

Dear Ms. Klein,

I have left you telephone messages on Sept. 20 and 27. We also sent you letters dated Sept. 18 and 19. But, we have not heard back from your office. The Sons of Confederate Veterans would like to see the statue that was formerly in Travis Park and assess its condition. We would also like to know the status of the time capsule that was placed under the foundation in 1899.

Sincerely yours,

Thomas J. Crane
